

MODEL: NOIR DESIR by Stijn van Oorschot

The Noir Désir secretary can be used as an independent piece in a gallery, a counter in a shop or as a functional desk in a living room. The design is inspired by the Empire- and Louis XVI style secretaries, and maintains the mysteries those classic models have. Noir Désir features 7 drawers, ingeniously hidden by engraved outlines on the desk. Each drawer can be conveniently opened by pressing the drawer front. A hidden push-open system locks and releases the practical drawers.

A part of the worktop can open up like the lid of a piano. The compartment holds 2 power sockets and can store a regular laptop. The lacquer is available in various colors and in semi-matte or glossy.

Oormerk is a Dutch design office in the south of the Netherlands. The office is part of a modern workshop, where a wide range of products and designs are developed.

Oormerk is Dutch for an ear-tag, a label normally worn by cattle or livestock. Products that are designed by the Oormerk-designers are limited, unique and contemporary but most important they have their own identity, an Oormerk-identity.
